About two hundred young men formed four deep, in military array, on the Friar's-Walk road, in the southern part of this city. The place at which they formed is not fifty yards from the Capwell police barracks. They assembled about nine o'clock, and last night was the first occasion on which they mustered at such an early honr, in such numbers, or so near the city. They were all grown young men. To about every twenty men was a fellow with a green rod, who acted as an officer and gave military orders. Immediately after forming they marched off, keeping excellent time, and singing the Fenian Marsellaise, "The Green Above the Red." Soon after their assemblug intelligence of the fact was conveyed to the Capwell police barrack, and, after some delay, caused by consulting the superior officers, fifteen armed policemen, under the command of a head constaile, started in pursuit. The Fenians had by this time about half an hour's start, and were marching along the road to a place called Five-Nile Bridge. The police, of course knowing that the Fenian sympathizers would give notice of their approach to the body in advance, would allow no one to pass before them on the road. Information of a reliable character shows indisputably that a large, if not indeed the chief elements of Fenian support are derived from Lancashire, and that the headquarters and prime movers in the matter are located in Liverpool. Here the central organization is situated, and from Liverpool emissaries are spread all over the district, who collect money, appoint agents, and enroll adherents. The most hitter enemies of the Fenius are the Reman Catholic hierarchy and the priests. In the People, the recognized organ of the brothcihood, there is a long account of a controversy between one of its agents in the provinces and his bishop. Finding the agent would not give up selling the People, the bishop demoned him from the altar, comparing him with some of the great sinners of history, but, as it is part of the creed of the Feulans that the clergy have no authority over them except in things purely spiritual and doctrinal, the agent paid uo heed to the bishop's demundations. The bishop then sent for the agent, when the latter curtly informed him that he knew where he resided if he wanted him, and excensed his secuning radeness by siluding to the hireats of the bishop. Tais led his lordship, finding the etuborn character he had to deal with, to visit the agent, who positively refused to step selling the People. A wordy connect ensued, when the bishop, losing his temper, called the agent many names, and tid lim the flesh wulld drop off his bones—as it did from these of a Fenian in a neighboring parlsh—for thus defying the church. His lordship wound up by telling the eigent to become a Protestam at once. The priestheod have themselves to blame for what is now occurring, for their own purposes they kept the country in a state of agitation for years, and now the more ignorant of the people have taken the bit between their own teeth. Dublia Correspondence of the London Post, Sept. 5.

THE CATHOLIC PRESS CEYING DOWN THE That the organization exists, and has its oill, cers, its meetings, and its moonlight paradings, there is abundant evidence to establish. The moet eceptical, if they would weigh it fairly, could not deny this much. The Rooman Cuthon Cuthon to deny this much. The Rooman Cuthon on the subject, and it is not any groundless fear that has caused them, from the altar and through the prees, so heartily to denounce the brotherhood, and implore the people not to be itd away by them. It is also significant to find such a paper as the Cork Examiner, whose propleter, Mr. Magulre, M. P., etands well with the hierarchy of his Church, again and again calling attention to the conspiracy. The persistency with which he is following np these attacks, in fact, places beyond doubt the source by which he is inspired. The Cork Examiner of vectorial that we expected from the Fenlan movement is beginning to make itself manifest. Here and there unfortunate voung men are being picked off by the police and sent to jail, with the prospect before them of imprisonment, possibly of penal servitude. Every day we are beginning to hear of new arreste—more persons consigned to the abode of the criminal—more dragged away from their Doubtless in this, as in all similar cases, every center has its detective or informer as surely as it has its recretary or other official. In all probability the Government acts upon the hope that the organization may quietly die of inanition; that, having no substantial basis, it may fall to the ground without splash or disturbance. This is what we should fain desire, both for the sake of the country and of these who, led away by a mistaken enthusiasm, suffer themselves to be trapped into this species of folly. Oace again, we would iain impress npon the dupes of this organization the atterly irrational and hopcless nature of the schemes it is supposed to be meant to further. Once again, we would ask them to cast their eyes back upon the past, to note how often hopes have been raised as high as theirs, organizations far more widely spread, leaders of higher mark and greater ability chosen, and yet how failure was the unalterable result. Is there more honor in vain outcress and organizations mischlevous only to those who belong to them than in striving to do the best possible for the nation under circumstances which it is valu to hope to alter?

Documents concerning the free Government of Mexico are published by Mr. J. N. Navarro, Cr sui-General of the Republic of Mexico in the United States, including communications from President Juarez and Mr. Romero, his Minister in Washington, and circulars from the Secretary of State, Mr. Lerdodetejada.

Juarez left Chinhahan on the 5th of Angust and arrived on the 15th at El Paso, where he established his government, surrounded by his cabinet, as we have herstofore announced. But, notwithstanding that he has found it expedient to thus temporarily chance his capital, he is not only hopeful but confident of an ultimate and complete triumph over the invaders.

The has still large bodies of troops at his disposal, who have commenced attacking the various detachments of the Imperialists in detail. Now that the latter have so greatly weakened their lines by extending, he anticipates decisive victories for his soldiers very soon. He does not think that Maximillian's forces will be likely to attempt to drive him from El Paso, but even chould they succeed in doing so, he has no idea of abandoning his country, and there continue the struggle, sanguine of util-mate enecess. The officers of the Mexican Republic who have arrived here, leaving El Paso about the beginning of the present month, say that the people of that town were manimous in their cuthusiastic reception of President Juarez.

Gen. Negrette, with one hundred officers, had that the "let alone" system is the best. Now, in order to fully comprehend the views of Mr. S. I would esk him whether he has carried out that system himself. Since he remarked the difference in the culture of the vine by the two Germans near Cincinnati, has he permitted the weeds to grow in his vineyard that season? It so, I am sure he will have to employ a pilot to get through the grounds if the soil is the same as mike I am fully convinced that too frequent plowing is injurious to the vine, but the weeds must be kept down by the hoe or some other implement; otherwise the grapes will not ripen. The vine of all other plants requires a dry soil during the season of ripening its fruit, and how could that condition be had with a crop of weeds, say six feet high, growing as they would this past season in the rows of grape? I feel confident Mr. S. would not willingly mislead any one in this matter, and, therefore, have no other mative in criticising the article than to do him justice, and at the same time prevent an erroneous practice in vine nulling. I very much doubt whether we will ever be successful in grape culture in this part of the country. I do not wish to discourage the planting of the vina, but, so far as my observation has extended, I do not know of failness so numerons that I am not able to sam them up just now. Yet I am willing to keep on trying every new variety that is not forward for sale that has any until.

willing to keep on trying every new variety t is put forward for sale that has any qualibut is put forward for each that has any qualiies to recommend it.

Our market is now being supplied with grapes one Kelly's Island, and if I say that has been be case for the past few years I do not think it would be contradicted. We may have some farorable localities for the vine in our State, yet we have to find them out.

We may yet obtain a variety that will not alidew, rot, or drop the fruit, or have any of lie faults which attend these now in cultivation.

I say, keep on trying, but there must be a

"Very well," our Quaker friend replied, and left the bank. But he did not let the matter drap here. On leaving the hank he went to the depot and telegraphed to all the agents and conductors on the road to reject the bills on the W— bank. In a few hours the trains began to arrive, full of the panic, and bringing the news of the W— bank all along the line. Let no man stake his prospects of fortnue, sencess, and happiness upon the continuance of slavery. Recent events have demonstrated that the institution is doomed. The resistless cry for emancipation has now been raised by nearly all Christendom, and England, France, Russin, and the United States have all succumbed before it. THE VEXED QUESTION.—The negro question in Kentucky is truly a vexed one. The pegro being neither slave nor free, neither fish, flesh, lowl, nor alligator, nobody knows how to treat Nobody knows whether to hire him or not. Yet the stubborn fact remains that he must est, and, if he cannot fill his stomach opestly, he must and will do it dishonestly The complaints, inquiries, and protests which we receive concerning this dark problem are too numerous to mention."

During the warm weather, when little clothing is required and when fruits are abundant, the ne ross manage to eke out an existence after a fachion without much difficulty, but a hostile winter is upon the track, and unless more of them go to work, and work more stead they now do, they'll see sights before the anow and ice are gone next spring.

We have before us a letter from a large land. ed proprietor in the interior of this State, who has been acting upon the compensation system ever since has year, he cays, paying his men two hundred dollars a year, and the women and children in proportion; but he says that unless they work better than they have been sing, he must discontinue the arrangement and sbandon farming, as he cannot make the pa

ments. He says:

Now, unless this class can be made to work, and sense judicious laws or orders to enforce the fulfillment of contracts between them and white men, are made, we will have a lamentable state of affairs. There is an antagonism between the two races, and if the negro won't work, and undertakes to live by theft.—which will be the case, and is now to some extent; smoke-houses are being constantly robbed—then will come a near of races, such as will make history shudder; sud to prevent this state of things should be the nim of all good men, regardless of all former party distinctions.

A public meeting has been called, the writer A public meeting has been called, the writ mys, to take place in the early part of October, to take the whole subject into consideration, is order to device some mode of meeting the per plexities of the situation. We print the following statement from his

I have sent to Canada for two house-serv I have cent to Canada for two house-servants and cook. I asked my negro woman the other day if she wished to stay. She said she was gesting too old to cook. She is only thirty-chart vears old. I told her I would pay her $\frac{1}{2}\] per year, and furnish her with house and fuel, and feed her three children, but she decilined the proposition. I only wanted her to cook, as I hired my washing out. They all expect to crowd around the towns, in capina, and live on the pilfering that will be carried on, and when they undertake that we will have dread-lit times, I can assure you.

This writer cays he has twelve hundred acre of land capable of producing enough to pay five hundred dollars income tax, but that he fears he shall be compelled to let a greater por tion of it lie idle in consequence of a want of

This state of things is deplorable enough Steps must be taken to remedy it. It is abour and cruel and stupid in the last degree to think for a moment of allowing it to drift on without any attempt at improvement. If the negroes are permitted to be idle and make no prepara tions for the coming winter, its needs no prophet to foresee that they will die of hunger, cold and wretchedness by scores and hundreds; and then will come appeals to our sympathics for eynary succer and support. This must not be. The evil must be grappled with at once.

We shall be told that all this wouldn't have happened, that the negroes, men, women, and idren, would have had good homes and plen ty, present and prospective, if there had not been any liberating of the niggers. Well, can bone What good will that valuable piece of informs tion do us or anybody else? Will it restore the niggers to their original condition? Will it feed and clothe them next winter? Will it have the least influence in enabling the writer of the extracts above quoted to cultivate his twelve hundred acres of land? Not a bit of it. You might as well talk about the Capernican system of the universe or the eternity of matter. What | Louisville Foundery & Machine Shop. might have been is one thing; what is and must be is quite another. We have the nigger They are really though not nominally free. What can be done with them? How can our farmers get labor to till their soil? These are the important, the practical questions which we have to meet. Cursing Garrison and Phillips, Yancey and Rhett will not help us out in the slightest. We might as well bay the moon. Something real and practical, tangible and effective is wanted. What shall it be? That the slave code of Kentucky cannot be carred into execution every one knows. That martial law, while it exists, dominates all other law and is supreme for the time being, is equally well known. We don't know but it will be absolutely need cesary to take the bull by the horns, and treat the negroes as freed, and then make them work. General Fisk has just come into the State from Alabama, Tennessee, and where he has been putting the negroes to work, and we believe it is his intention to put them to work, all of them, here. It will be a god send to them if he will. Take the example of the woman mentioned above, who was offered a hundred and twenty dollars a year and found to cook and who refused the offer. What i she going to do next winter? Loaf and steal? If not, how is she to live? And how are the tens of thousands of other negroes to live in a similar condition? They must be made to work We believe the President of the United States will heartly respond to this sentiment and sustain any reasonable and just method to accom plieb so desirable a result. The Constitution United States will be in practical operation probably within six months, so that if martial law were withdrawn from Kentucky and a deeperate effort made to enforce its slave code, the attempt would hardly be fairly in operation before the shackles would fall from e in the Commonwealth by virtue of the Consultation of the United States—the supreme law of the land. In it worth while, then, to make that attempt? We put the question to every honest map in this State. With the circumstances in which we and the whole country are placed in which we and the whole country are placed in which we aim the motions of freedom.

It is no party question. Perish the wretch that could think question. Perish the wretch that could think planes and organs. white mother, wife, and child in the State should be placed in jeopardy! We say it would not be good policy; that it would not be either for the material interest or the moral welfare of the people of the State. On the contrary, we think it would be greatly for its interests in every sense of the word to let martial law remain in order that the slaves may be treated as free, and compelled to work, and thus save them from sufferings that will otherwise be horrible, and the whites from much inconvenience and ss, trouble and danger. In saying this, we declare at the same time that we are as much opposed to martial law in time of peace, as much in favor of the civil law, of the habeas corpus, of trial by jury, etc., etc., as any human beings can be. We see no other way to meet and overthrow the gigantic evils upon us, and which will keep on increas- Printers' Materials. ing with the increase of cold weather, to which we allude. If anybody can suggest a better mode, we are quite willing to adop, it. Martial law is in existence by express orders of the National Executive who was authorised by Congrees to declare it and keep it in operation so long as, in his judgment, it might be necessary.

Its prevalence is, therefore, no violation of the Constitution or of the laws; and while it exists" it is supreme. Upon that point there is no difference, we believe, of opinion. Now if Gen. Fisk, acting upon the fact that martial law exista, shall proceed, with the sanction of the President, to put the negroes of Kentucky to work under such a system as will make them perform their contracts and secure to them at the same time fair wages and just treatment. will it not be the best both for whites and blacks for him to do it?

Let him who objects propose a better plan. The work of granting pardons at Washington proceeds steadily but slowly. We can-not help thinking of the idea of Dr. Franklin, who, when a boy, got weary of standing no and listening to grace at every meal and respectfully asked his respected father whether it wouldn't do just as well to say grace over the whole pork-barrel at once. Right Rev. Peter Joseph Lavaille, D. D., was consecrated Bishop of Louisville vesterday. The ceremony took place in the Cathedral, and was very numerously attended by both the clergy and laity. Of the higher clergy there were present on the occasion Most Rev. M. J. Spalding, D. D., Most Rev. J. B. Purcell. D. D., Right Rev. John McGill, D. D., Right Rev. Peter P. Lesevere, D. D., Right Rev. M. de St. Palais, D. D., Right Rev. John H. Luers, D. D., Right Rev. George A. Carrell, D. D., Right Rev Masia Benedict, Mitred Abbot of Gethsemane. There were also about forty priests present chiefly from the Diocese of Louisville. We no retand also that Rev. Dr. McCloskey, President of the American College in Rome, arrived in time to witness the ceremony.

The procession formed in the Bishop's house, and entered the Cathedral by the front door. The ceremony began about 10 o'clock. The of the Church, is always performed during the crifice of the Mass, which is celebrated by the consecrating Bishop. Archbishop Purcell, assisted by Bishops McGili and St. Palais, performed the consecration. After the epistle of the day had been read, the book of Gospel was placed on the shoulders of the Bishop elect to signify that the burden of preaching the Gospel was imposed upon him according to the words of St. Paul, "Woe be to me if I preach not the Gospel, for I am bound to do it." After this followed the imposition of hands

d the annointing of the new Bishop, "that Hoty Ghost might fill him with His grace, protect him from all harm." Then the nd crocier were presented to him. The the emblem of the union which exists en the Bishop and his Church. We find eady in the Council of Toledo the ring ignated as a suitable emblematic ornament for a Bishop. The crosler, of which St. Isidore. of Seville, first makes special mention, is the ensign of episcopal power and jurisdiction The miter, which is placed on the Bushop's head after he has received communion under the two torms, has a like meaning.

Lavialle was enthroned upon the episcopal thair. By this ceremony, which is very old, and of which mention is made in the "Apostolic onstitution," the new Bishop took solemn possession of his see.

The sermon of the occasion was preached by Archbishop Spalding. He chose the Hierarchy of the Church as his subject. There are differ. Church, but only one spirit. The Church was blished by Christ for all nations and all ages, and yet she was to be one. Hence variety n unity is her great law. He insisted especially upon the unity of the Church, showing how beautifully all the grades of the hierarchy set in one central point, the Pope of Rome who is the link that, by binding us to Unrist. inds us together. He touched upon the historical signification of the Popacy in the church of Christ. The argument was well sustained, and the whole discourse was well thought and well delivered.

After Mass, the Rev. Bishop proceeded down the main sisle, giving his blessing to his as sembled people.

ANOTHER OUTRAGE UPON NEGROES -We hear vicinity by citizene and soldlers alike; but the arfare made upon two or three blacks yesterday was about as unjustified and bad as any of which we have heard. A Touching Appeal for Defendant.

PITTSBUEG, Sept. 24.

The Boyd's Hill murder mystery was partially cierted up to-day by the voluntary confession of Benj. Bernhardt Marshall, a German, who states that in Angust Isis he and another German named August Frick met in New York. A German emigrant, whose name they did not learn, a molder by trade, came to Pittsburg on an emigrant train. While on the road out, Marshall and Frick, believing that the stranger was possessed of a large amount of money, conceived the Idea of murdering him, which was accomplished on their arrival by inducing the stranger to visit Boyd's Hill, where Marshall lived. The conflict was short and decisive, Frick stabbing him three times, while simultaneously Marshall struck him several times on the Lead with a crowbar. Frick has also made a voluntary statement, in which he tries to throw discredit on a part of Marshall's statement for the purpose of exculpating himself. The confession created intense excitement throughout the city, and crowds of clizens obstructed the streets on the passage of the prisoners to jail.

New York, Sept. 21. Taoy, N. Y., Sept. 23.

A railroad accident occurred on the Rensselaer and Saratoga Company's Long Bridge, crossing Hudson river, at one o'clock this morning. A train was backing to the city for the purpose of starting ont at eight o'clock. The engine was running iender foremost, followed by three passenger cars and a baggage car. The swingdraw was open at the time, and several lights were displayed; but the engineer misunderstood the signal, and did not notice the open draw till close upon it. The locomotive plunged torty feet into the deep water of the channel, and was followed by one of the passenger cars, which was nearly submerged. The next passenger car was suspended over the abutment. Our clitzens were startled by the escaping steam from the engine and the light from the wood-work which canght fire. Ladders were procured to reach like wreck and a raft was sunched. Fortunately the only passengers in the car were three persons, who were riding over to the city, one being the master mechanic of the road. They made their escape from the car. Measures were at once taken to relieve the overhauging car. The bridge is used both by the Saratoga and Central railroad. This is the first accident that has hap-jueud there.

on monday a convention of all the societies bedronging to working men's Unions in this State will be held at Albany to consider these questions: The abbreviation of hours of labor, the exclusion of convicts from employment to the detriment of honest men, and the regulation of the laws of apprenticeship. The first question has been long and well disensed, but the wo last are comparatively new to the according two last are comparatively new to the associa-tion. It is complained that the graduates of sing-Sing are permitted to compete with re-pectable persons, and that, owing to the pres-ent inefficient system of apprenticeship, good workmen, in every branch of the mechanic arts, are daily growing less.

Mr. Baker said that he couldn't go it blind by consenting to such an arrangement. Col. Chipman replied that the evidence reterred to was Lewis Lee and others, of the rebel government, and the ecunsel had no right to object to the testimony which did not personally affect his client.

Mr Baker said that the prisoner was charged with conspiring with parties named as well as parties not named. He did not know who the latter were. If the Judge Advocate introduced matter which had nothing to do with Wertz, then, of course, he had no objection. The Court inquired of Judge Advocate Chipman whether he had such testimony at hand, and whether witness had been sent for. Col. trial like this. He has books and documents, but they have till to-day been kept from his conneel by the Government, in all parts of the United States—In almost every State and village of the country. Some of them have come at his request, but many more are kept away, even after subponed, because of want of means to come with. Others write and say: "We have seen the charges, and can say, from our long stay at Andersouville, such and such charges are not true; but we have no means to come, unless yon send them to us."

Here is a poor, destitute, distracted and shattered prisoner, with powerless and inefficient conneel, endeavoring to compete with all the power and ability that this most powerful Government can employ to crush him.
